Attention Reggae Lovers! We announce reggae school. An institution dedicated to spreading the skill and vibes to play level reggae music and unite people of all races and cultures in a reggae vibration, spreading the knowledge of how to play and create authentic reggae throughout the Pacific region and elsewhere.

Our first event is a one week long workshop at our home base, Steelgrass farm and recording studio on the island of Kaua'i, Hawaii.

Our aim is to distill the best of the teachings of a great music school, ear training/arranging/harmony/ensembles/lessons/vocals, etc.. into an easy and fun format to interact with all in a heavy reggae groove. We are accepting musicians of all levels, from Beginner to Advanced.

We are excited to announce a world class faculty:

- Matt Jenson, (Berklee College of Music Bob Marley Ensemble) Keys/Organ/Improv
- Tuff Lion, (Midnite, I-Grade, Bambu Station) Guitar/Ensemble/Vocals/Production
- Roger Steffens, (Author, reggae archivist and Founder of Beat Magazine) Reggae History
- Gabe Jones, Vocals/Drums/Ear Training/Theory
- Will Lydgate, Bass/Ear Training Theory/Coordinator
- Danny Mo, (Berklee College of Music Bass Professor) Bass/Ensemble
- Jack Miller, (Reggae Music Pioneer, Film Producer) Songwriting/Reggae history
